World affairs lay heavy, politicians coar and condemn, baseball season's underway, the thoughts of the young are turning—and I've got spring fever.

Just the other day, I listened to Worth Jennings, Roland Black and Bill Sternberg argue about which had done the most work on the new greens at the Canyon City Club—and I got tired just listening.

Meredith Warren was raking out the flower beds Thursday evening—and I just had to roll over the other way so I wouldn't see him.

Every afternoon that's even half nice I get the urge to go fishing; and when I do get there, I wish there was a shade tree to lay under.

When I was younger, I believed that spring fever was a malady the comedians and old folks joked about. I knew that it was only an excuse to be lazy. But that's not so—I've got spring fever.

If I can shake myself enough to get to moving, I'm planning to attend the precinct convention Saturday. I hope I see you there. I hope that lot of us will be there.

Some of us don't like the way things have been going, some of the rest of us like it and don't want any changes made. And there are a few of us who are just curious.

And, for all of us, the time to have our say is next Saturday. After the precinct convention is over, we won't have any more voice in who the presidential candidates are—the only thing left for us will be to vote against the one we don't like next November. (You know, very few of us ever vote for someone, always against.)

When we go to our precinct convention, we have a chance to recommend things for our party's platform and to speak up and say who we would like for our party's presidential candidate.

It may do little good, but at least we can feel satisfied that we had our say. Of course, it's more fun to neglect the precinct convention and then gripe if things don't go to suit us. It's easier then to blame someone else for the ills of the government.

Anyway, if I can get rid of the spring fever long enough, I'm going to the precinct convention, won't you?

But, then I'm not the only one who has spring fever. Down in Austin, the Texas Supreme Court has a good case of the malady.

Last February, when the weather was cool, spirits were high and a man felt like doing a little work, the supreme court of the state announced it would make a ruling on the case concerning the right of several Santa Fe employees in Amarillo to work for the company regardless of their membership in a union.

As you remember, the workers filed a suit against the non-operating unions declaring that they did not want to belong to a union, but did want to continue working for the railroad. The suit went up through the state courts until it was finally appealed to the state supreme court.

Along about the same time, a similar suit, testing the right to work law of Nebraska, went up through the Nebraska courts and got to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Well, when the Texas Supreme Court heard that the U. S. Supreme Court was going to make a decision, the honorable members of the Texas court decided they'd just sit back and let someone else make up their minds for them.

Now, all the law folks agree that the Texas case is a much better one than the Nebraska case—it gives more evidence in more detail. They all think the Texas case should be considered by the U. S. Supreme Court before the judges there make up their minds.

So, the lawyers for both sides petitioned the Texas court to do something, but the petition was set aside. Then the newspapers got ahold of the problem and chewed it around quite a bit. The Texas judges decided they'd better do something since this is an election year.

They announced they'd make a decision, but haven't done it since February.

That would probably be all right, but the U. S. Supreme Court got tired of waiting, and set the Nebraska case for next week. The Nebraska people and the Texas people asked the Washington judges to wait for Texas, but they won't.

It all adds up this way. If the Texas judges don't get up and get along with their business, the Amarillo citizens who originally started the suit won't have a chance to get a decision under state laws.

The issue at point is not whether the folks in Amarillo can work or not, but whether the right to work laws of 18 states are valid. The Texas law says, in effect, that every citizen of the state has a right to work for someone else so long as both the employee and the employer are satisfied, and no third party, such as a union, has any say in the matter at all.

I guess the Austin judges don't feel like it's worth the trouble to make up their minds. It's hot and it's spring and decisions are so much trouble; Washington's going to tell us what to do anyway.

This summer and next fall, when voting time comes around, we'll all be over the spring fever, and this case might be a good item to remember when we get to the column on the ballot for state supreme court justices.

I counted 23 buds on a rosebush beside the kitchen door, and I'd just as soon it was time for them to start blooming.

All around the square you can hear men talking about their lawns and flower beds and what they've done to make their yards look pretty.

It's getting almost too late to do much about your yard this summer, but not quite. Just driving around town, you can see plenty of places that are going to be beautiful—then next door there are yards that qualify for fine dump grounds.

There's one place I know of that still has weeds left over from last year. It costs considerable money to put in and keep up a beautiful yard, but it costs only work to keep a place presentable. You know, keep the weeds down, keep all the junk and trash hauled to the alley, things like that.

We all keep talking about how we're going to attract people from Amarillo who want to live in a small town, but we won't attract anything but flies if we don't keep Canyon clean and presentable.

Because this is an election year and we can probably get the members of Congress to promise most anything, why don't we get busy and get the federal government to guarantee about 40 inches of rain a year? That seems to me to be better than even 90 per cent price supports, or a national bank on every farm.—BC

Dear Editor:

As of that new kind of fad for the young folks' dancing and singing, I tell you I sure do agree with you 100 per cent. The first time I saw E. P. on TV I told my children, all five of them that are still at home, that it was immoral and some thought it funny. But after explaining how ashamed any mother should be if any of her children should indulge in such vulgar singing or yelping, a good day's work would soon remedy such silliness, I am sure, and do more good. And about movies like these and others. Canyon has three movie places and the other week, to be specific, the week of April 15, you sure would have to look to find one that was presentable to children or even some adults.

I always like to trade in your fair city and like your paper so much more since you are not afraid to take an honest stand for the good of all.

NAME ON FILE, WITHHELD BY REQUEST

Dear Editor:

We have noted with growing concern the increasing number of morally dangerous motion pictures being produced and shown throughout the country each day.

If this should be continued, the country as a whole will soon become morally undermined. It is a well established fact that movies are a form of education—visual aid educational films are shown in many schools each week. But, if these same youngsters (who learn so aptly from the movies they see in their school auditorium) are subjected continually to a barrage of morally dangerous scenes on their family theater screens, are they not just as apt to learn and accept morally dangerous situations as an every day occurrence?

All young people and teen-agers are hero-worshippers. Isn't it a shame that nearly all the "heroes" with whom the young people of today come in contact via the movie screen are either gangsters, criminals, or some other type of moral pervers? And these latter are usually depicted as clever and suave operators who appeal readily to the adventurous minds of youth.

Surely the nation's young people don't all relish or delight in this form of entertainment, but all young people do need recreation, and movies are a common and inexpensive form of entertainment, much followed by the budget minded teenager.

How can we overcome this problem? Perhaps we can start at home. If this picture is known to be of a morally dangerous nature, perhaps our theater manager could either refuse to accept the film, or refuse to show it. Although it is true that some films are practically forced into the theater manager's hands, surely he has the right to choose a good many films he handles. If that should be unsuccessful, perhaps we, the patrons, could abstain from attending pictures of an immoral content.

Something has to be done, to let the producers of motion pictures know that America's teenagers are tired of immorality in dress, speech and action.

MRS. BILLY WICK PFEFFER

Oleta Pond Marries Billy Pfeffer; Couple at Home in Borger, Texas

On April 19 at 7 p. m. in the Church of Christ Study, Borger, nuptial vows were exchanged by Miss Oleta Mae Pond and Billy Wick Pfeffer. A. R. Cox, minister, officiated over the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bertha Pond and the late R. L. Pond, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pfeffer, 1015 W. Lee, Borger.

For the wedding, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly type lace over ice blue taffeta which featured a waltz length bouffant skirt with scalloped hemline to match the delicate scallops of the square neckline. The bridal veil of imported illusion with lace applique fell from a modified pillbox of Chantilly lace and seed pearls.

Her bouquet was a cascade of red roses and stephanotis. For something old the bride wore her grandmother's cameo, for something new, a pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom, something borrowed, pearl and diamond earrings from her niece, something blue, a garter, and for luck, a penny in her shoe.

Matron of honor, Mrs. A. R. Cox, Spring Creek community, Borger, wore navy blue crepe with white trim and a white orchid corsage. Best man was W. E. Pfeffer.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party was feted with a dinner party at the Borger Country Club where the couple cut a white wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom.

A toast Moygashel linen and gold trimmed costume styled by Miller-Cupaioli was worn with pink accessories and a pink rosebud corsage by the bride for the wedding trip to Red River, N. M.

Mrs. Pfeffer is a graduate of Borger High School and Texas State College for Women, Denton. The bridegroom graduated from Borger High School and Oklahoma A&M College, Stillwater, Okla. He is the owner of Borger greenhouses and flower shop.

They are at home at Spring Creek community.

THE CATCH

A very lazy fellow was finally prevailed upon to apply for a job. He seemed to fill all the requisites the application called for but the salary offered was very modest.

"If you take the job," said the manager, "you will receive a raise in six months."

"You say I'll get a raise in six months?" asked the applicant.

"Yes," said the manager, "if your work is satisfactory, of course."

"Oh, said the applicant, turning away in disgust, "I might have known there'd be a catch to it!"

Harmony may yet come to the Democratic party in Texas.

But it will come only if Gov. Allan Shivers, Sen. Lyndon Johnson, and Speaker Sam Rayburn get together — as they did when they named Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey national committeeman.

A backer of Senator Johnson as Texas' favorite-son candidate for President suggested that the Senator seek only the favorite-son role and not attempt also to be chairman of the delegation.

Both Shivers and Johnson have been recommended as chairman — each by a different faction — Shivers by the conservatives, Johnson by the liberals.

Mrs. H. H. Weinert of Seguin is the "dove of peace" in the present controversy. She is Texas' Democratic National Committeewoman.

She predicts that the state convention will end up with two delegations to the national convention unless Shivers, Rayburn and Johnson get together soon.

Meanwhile a full-fledged campaign is under way by Johnson boosters, for his nomination as Texas favorite son candidate for President. Prominent Texans aligned with the movement include Speaker Rayburn, Former Vice President John Nance Garner, Former Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, and Former Congressman Lloyd Bentsen Jr.

Shivers, who likes Johnson in the favorite son role, but not as head of the delegation, predicts that his conservative group will win out in the May 5 precinct, May 8 county, and May 22 state conventions. Liberals say that, should this happen, they will send a contesting delegation to Chicago in August.

Newcomers Due in Legislature
New faces can be expected when the 55th Legislature convenes next January.

Some 66 races — 55 in the House and 11 in the Senate — already are under way over the state. More filings are expected before the May 7 deadline.

Some political observers predict an unusually large turnover in both houses.

Of the 16 senators whose terms are expiring, two will not be candidates. They are Warren McDonald of Tyler and Gus J. Strauss of Hallettsville. Another vacancy was created by the death of Sen. Wayne Wagonseller of Bowie.

Of those running, only five do not have opponents. They are Sens. Neville Colson of Navasota, Jarrard Secrest of Temple, George Moffett of Chillicothe, Frank Owen III of El Paso and William S. Fly of Victoria.

Hot contests for the remaining seats already have developed in some areas. Senators facing cam-

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS
OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

The Veto of the Farm Bill

There were several matters connected with the veto of the farm bill that were very interesting. One of these was the fact that several Governors who belong to the same party as the President, realizing at firsthand the plight of the American farmer, sought an audience with the President to present their thoughts on the subject matter.

The audience was granted for Monday morning, April 16th, and the doors of the White House swung open to admit these gentlemen to a conference on the subject. It was presumed by these men that their thoughts and recommendations were to be given consideration with relation to any action to be taken on this piece of legislation.

What they didn't know was that the veto message had already been written and that they might as well have been on a sightseeing tour.

The truth is that the veto message was on Capitol Hill almost before these Governors got the dust of the White House off their feet.

According to the Eastern press quoting White House sources, the advisory committee consulted by the President concerning the veto message consisted of True D. Morse, Under Secretary of Agriculture who has long advocated washing out all marginal farmers; Ezra Taft Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, who has repeatedly contested every provision contained in the farm bill, but who has recently underwritten a soil bank proposal that he formerly fought; Dr. Gabriel Hauge, whose title as Doctor does not refer to medicine and obviously not to agriculture (an economist who successfully convinced some grain sorghum farmers that I took to see him last year that his agricultural theories were fine except that they wouldn't work on a farm); Kevin McCann, a speech writer, and last but not least, Fred Seaton whose great farm knowledge no doubt came from his previous experience with the Department of Defense.

My first reaction to the veto message was that it was written by Gabriel Hauge, because much of the language is identical with the words and phrases used by him when we had the grain sorghum conference last year.

I had thought that the proper thing for the President to do was to consult with some of the elected representatives of the people, but I guess I just haven't gotten rid of all of my old-fashioned ideas.

It does seem strange how these economists, speechmakers, big businessmen, and so forth are always willing to run the farmer's business but never want the farmer to have any hand in theirs.

However, the farmer has always been used to battling for his rights, and this present battle has just begun.

Additional Referendums Asked
Texas Citizens Councils want a July primary referendum on school integration and mixed marriages.

Petitions asking the Democratic Executive Committee to place these questions on the ballot are being circulated in 30 cities. These would be in addition to the interposition referendum proposed by Governor Shivers.

"We're going for interposition too," said Ross Carlton, head of the pro-segregation organization, "but we think more direct action is needed."

Water Group Formed
Six major Texas farm groups have joined forces to form the Texas Agricultural Water Committee: Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, Texas Farm Bureau, Association of Texas Soil Conservation Districts, Texas State Grange, and Texas Farmers Union.

Farm groups generally opposed the water program presented during the last legislature and were credited with contributing to its defeat. One purpose of the new organization is to work for the passage of water legislation.

Historic Tour Planned
Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas historical societies have joined hands to sponsor a six-day tour that will relive the frontier days.

Start of the tour will be at the Alamo in San Antonio. Texas stops include Austin, Waco, Hillsboro, Cleburne, Cresson, Weatherford and Fort Worth.

The May 1-6 program will include dinners and dances and Red River bridge ceremonies, with historical groups along the way actively participating.

Short Snorts
A cut of 79,331 barrels per day in crude oil production for May has been ordered by the Texas Railroad Commission.

Commissioners Ernest O. Thompson and Olin Culberson have suggested price increases in Texas crude oil.

Texas' tidelands have produced $57,000,000 since being restored to state ownership by Congress in 1953, according to the School Land Board.

W. P. Glass, president of the Texas Legal Reserve Officials Association, says that a February gain in the life insurance sales in Texas shows a recovery of public confidence in the industry.

State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer, former president of the American Association of State Highway Officials, is the newly elected president of the Western Highway Officials Association.

Hammond Life Insurance Co. of Dallas has challenged the validity of the 1955 law which gave the Insurance Commission power to determine whether officials of an insurance company are "worthy of public confidence" and qualified to hold office. Hearings are being held in Travis County District Court.

J. Earl Rudder has announced as a candidate for Land Commissioner. He was appointed to the office in January of 1955 when Bascom Giles refused to qualify.

Of the Texas men entering service in March, 47 per cent were volunteers.

A Chicago investment firm has been authorized to issue $5,000,000 in revenue bonds for building tourist hotels in the state parks at Atlanta, Lake Texhoma and Inks Lake near Burnet.

SAFE ARGUMENT
"Are you in favor of daylight saving?"

"It has its advantages," answered Senator Sorghum. "It gives people something to argue about that involves no possible mutual insinuations as to normal character."

We leave no stone unturned in our insurance service to you. Enough of the right insurance is the program planned. And in case of loss, settlement is prompt and fair. See us this week.

Boggs-Friemel Vows Exchanged

In an early morning ceremony April 18 in the Sacred Heart Cathedral, St. Mary's Parish, Umbarger, Neyse Mae Boggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Boggs of Quitaque, became the bride of Roman Joseph Friemel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Friemel, Umbarger.

Monsignor John A. Steinlage officiated over the double-ring ceremony before an altar flanked with white gladiolus bouquets.

St. Mary's Academy Choir sang the Missa "Salve Pater" by Rossini and "Panis Angelicus" by Cascioli for the offertory hymn. Nancy Bradburn accompanied the choir and Mary Janssen played traditional wedding marches.

Carrying colonial bouquets, Joyce Friemel, sister of the bridegroom, and Joyce Boggs, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaids. They were attired in lime green lace over taffeta dresses of ballerina length which featured ruffled side panels, front and back straight panels, fitted bodices and bolero jackets. Their headbands were braided nylon plastic net with scattered small bunches of flowers.

Betty Higgins, maid of honor, was attired in a dusty rose costume identical to that of the bridesmaids.

Jerome Friemel attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were Bob Wieck and Joe Friemel.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of white nylon net over taffeta. The skirt of the gown was a series of wide full ruffles in graduated lengths and was topped with a bodice featuring a princess neckline, embroidered lace and short sleeves. The bridal veil was attached to a Bo-Peep crown of miniature seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias.

Immediately following the ceremony, the wedding party was feted with a breakfast prepared by Mrs. Pauline Farmer and Mrs. Sadie Plank in the bride's apartment. A dinner honoring the couple was given in the Henry Bracht home and a reception and dance in St. Mary's Hall.

Mrs. Friemel is a graduate of Quitaque High School and prior to her marriage, she was employed at Southwestern Investment Co. in Amarillo. Mr. Friemel graduated from Hereford High School and is engaged in farming.

After the wedding trip, the couple will be at home on a farm near Umbarger.

Town and Country Club Met Thursday

The Town and Country Club met Thursday in the Arthur Olson home for games of "42."

Refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lair, Mr. and Mrs. John Albert Byars, Mr. and Mrs. John Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Costley, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Burrus, and Mr. and Mrs. John Cook.

Some 230,000 termites are mounted under glass at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C. The gift of Thomas E. Snyder, a retired Agriculture Department entomologist, the collection includes 1286 distinct species of the approximately 2000 known to exist, according to Science Service.

Dining rooms, says a recent survey, are on their way out. We've been dimly aware of this trend since the early '30s, when friends began to knock out walls to make living rooms larger.

Many of the new ultra-modern homes relegate the dining table to what they call "an area," either at the end of the living room, the family room or the kitchen. No doubt it's sensible to make each room in the house serve at least two purposes, and the old-fashioned dining room was certainly an unbending part of any home.

We're quite happy to have those homemakers, young and old, who have no memories follow this trend. For our part, however, we'd hate to give up rich childhood recollections of a very happy family for whom social life centered in the dining room. One can hardly feed seven to 14 persons in "an area."

Mother was a good cook who loved people and who was never appalled at a kitchen full of dishes. Father was the old-fashioned genial host, whose wit and good humor blossomed at its best under the stimulation of good food and friends.

From the moment we went, almost reverently, to the china closet to take out the delicate Haviland china, to the clearing of the table, mealtime was a pleasurable occasion. And while Father's over-long "graces" sometimes made his hostess fidget as the food got cold, they were always beautifully expressed and specially suited to the moment.

Nowadays, it's true, we eat our meals wherever whim dictates: in the kitchen, on the terrace, in the living room by the fireplace, even in the bedroom where we watch television. But we still have — and use — a dining room. And as long as memory lasts, so help us, that's the way it's going to be at our house, survey or no survey.

Beef Stew Should Be Cheap in May

COLLEGE STATION—The supplies of beef and onions in the southwest area are so plentiful that the U. S. Department of Agriculture has given them the feature spot on the May plentiful foods list.

Beef production is running from 15 to 20 per cent higher than last year at this time and wholesale beef prices are averaging 10 to 15 per cent lower.

With the acreage planted to early spring onions averaging a third more than last year, a bumper crop is now moving into marketing channels. Shipping point prices are about half what they were at the same time last year.

Other foods plentiful in this area include broilers and fryers, milk and other dairy products, grapefruit, dates, canned and frozen cherries, rice, peanuts and peanut butter, lard and dry beans.

The official plentiful foods list for this area is based on food stocks reported to the southwest food distribution division, Agricultural Marketing Service, Dallas.

Be Prepared

Are the young people of Canyon preparing themselves for the future? Will they be capable of helping to make the nation progress when they take places of leadership?

Questions such as these are found in magazines and newspaper articles every day, and if noticed present a worthwhile challenge to place tremendous responsibility upon high school students. To be qualified to fill strategic positions, young Americans must receive a good education. Students in Canyon High School are fortunate in having a state college in town.

With this opportunity so near, waiting to be taken advantage of, they must not fail to prepare for the future by getting an education which will enable them to be of service to their neighbors, their nation, and to God.

Prof Highlights

Vocational Homemaking assists family members to work on family living problems in the home and in the community. Homemaking education prepares youth for the responsibilities of homemaking, the most universal occupation in which every individual participates. The efficiency of workers in every occupation is affected by the quality of home and family living from which they come.

The homemaking program provides individual and group learning experiences in school, home, and community. Group learning experiences are provided for in financial planning, consumer buying, management of time and energy, home-care of the sick, personal and family living, foods, clothing and housing for the family, child development, and home management.

In Canyon High School Homemaking I, II, III, classes are open to freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior girls in the regular school term. Home experiences may be done during the summer months.

The basic goal of homemaking is to help the individual to live a more useful and satisfying personal, family, and community life so that she may become a better citizen through understanding human relations and assuming responsibilities and privileges as a member of the family and community.

Courses offered in high school try to meet the needs, desires, and interests of the students enrolled in the classes, and the work done is mostly practical, not technical, as high school homemaking is not a prerequisite for college entrance where the student might choose Home Economics as a college major or minor.

An integral part of this program is the Future Homemakers of America organization which develops the initiative of youth in planning and participating in home and community life.

Billy the Kid Comes Back Here For Historical Society Banquet

Linger up your holster, boys, Billy the Kid's making a comeback.

Frazier Hunt, biographer, journalist and worldwide correspondent, will tell how "A New Billy the Kid Comes to Life" at the annual banquet of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society May 11. Hunt, who has recently completed a biography of Billy the Kid, is slated as main speaker for the banquet.

Reservations for the banquet, which begins at 7 p. m., may be made by calling the museum. Tickets are $2.50 each.

During the afternoon before the banquet, the annual meeting of members of the society are expected to discuss the question of a third unit addition to the museum. The executive committee last year advised Museum Director Boone McClure to prepare a report for this year's meeting.

The members meeting begins at 3 p. m. Prior to that, at 2 p. m., the executive committee of the society will meet.

Along with the annual meeting, a special art exhibit from Taos, N. M., has been hung in the museum and is now on display. The exhibit will be on display through the annual meeting.

Dinner music and special musical events have been planned for the banquet. J. Harold Dunn, president of the society, will preside during the meetings and the banquet.

Memberships in the society are $5 annually and may be obtained at the annual meeting. Larger gifts to the society or museum entitle the donor to higher rank in the membership list. McClure said all gifts donated since 1945 are cumulative. Gifts and donations are deductible from income tax, he said.

Hunt, a journalist for more than 40 years, is the author of several biographies, including the story of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Cap Mossman, Frontiersman and Gen. George Custer, of Little Big Horn fame.

Presently living in Newtown, Bucks County, Pa., Hunt has lectured all over the world as well as throughout the Knife and Fork Club circuit in the United States.

DR. OLIVER S. WILLHAM

Announce Speaker For W T Graduation

Commencement speaker for West Texas State College's 230 candidates for degrees May 20 will be Dr. Oliver S. Willham, president of Oklahoma A&M College.

Combined baccalaureate and commencement exercises will be held in the WT field house at 5 p. m. May 20, according to President James P. Cornette. Spring commencement was held there for the first time last year.

First graduate to attain the presidency of Oklahoma A&M, Dr. Willham has spent nearly half his life on the Stillwater campus. He has been president since January 1952.

Dr. Willham moved with his family to Oklahoma in 1907, settling near Randlett, where his father was a cattle feeder. He attended school in Randlett and entered A&M in 1919.

He was graduated in 1923 with a B.S. degree, majoring in animal husbandry. Dr. Willham received his masters degree in animal breeding at Iowa State College, and his doctorate in animal breeding and genetics there in 1935.

Shortly after his graduation from A&M in 1923, Dr. Willham joined the staff of Panhandle A&M college at Goodwell. He became dean of the college in 1927 and vice president in 1929.

He became assistant professor of animal husbandry at Oklahoma A&M in 1934, and vice-dean of agriculture and a full professor in 1939.

TORNADO SAFETY RULES

TO KNOW WHAT TO DO WHEN A WARNING IS RECEIVED, OR A TORNADO IS OBSERVED, MAY MEAN THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH!!

I There is no universal protection against tornadoes except caves or underground excavations. When time permits, go to a tornado cellar, cave, or underground excavation which should have an air outlet to help equalize the air pressure. It should be kept fit for use, free from water, gas, or debris; and preferably equipped with pick and shovel.

II If you are in open country :

1. Move at right angles to the tornado's path. Tornadoes usually move ahead at about 25 to 40 miles per hour.
2. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.

III If in a city or town :

1. Seek inside shelter, preferably in a strongly reinforced building. STAY AWAY FROM WINDOWS!
2. In homes: The southwest corner of the basement usually offers greatest safety, particularly in frame houses. People in houses without basements should find other shelter, preferably in a storm cellar, although a depression, such as a ditch or ravine, can offer some protection. If time permits, electricity and fuel lines should be shut off. Doors and windows on the north and east sides of the house may be opened to help reduce damage to the building.
3. Standing against the inside wall on a lower floor of an office building offers some protection.

IV If in schools :

1. In city areas: If school building is of strongly reinforced construction, stay inside, away from windows, remain near an inside wall on the lower floors when possible. AVOID AUDITORIUMS AND GYMNASIUMS with large, poorly-supported roofs!
2. In rural schools that do not have strongly reinforced construction, remove children and teachers to a ravine or ditch if storm shelter is not available.

V If in factories and industrial plants :

On receiving a tornado warning, a lookout should be posted to keep safety officials advised of the tornado's approach. Advance preparation should be made for shutting off electrical circuits and fuel lines if the tornado approaches the plant. Workers should be moved to sections of the plant offering the greatest protection.

VI Keep calm! It will not help to get excited. People have been killed by running out into streets and by turning back into the path of a tornado. Even though a warning is issued, chances of a tornado striking one's home or location are very slight. Tornadoes cover such a small zone, as a rule, that relatively only a few places in a warned area are directly affected. You should know about tornadoes though, "just in case".

VII Keep tuned to your radio or television station for latest tornado advisory information. Do not call the Weather Bureau, except to report a tornado, as your individual request may tie up telephone lines urgently needed to receive special reports or to relay advisories to radio and television stations for dissemination to thousands in the critical area.

Highway Patrol Taking Recruits

The Texas Highway Patrol is accepting applications between now and June 10 for appointment as State Patrolmen.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said that state-wide examinations would be given late in June and that successful candidates will be selected to begin training in September to fill the remaining original vacancies authorized by the last Legislature when the Patrol strength was increased by 200 men.

HOGS ARE SHIPPED FROM THE EAST ...SOLD IN THE WEST

BUT THE PROFIT GOES BACK TO THE EASTERN HOG RAISER

Why not keep that PROFIT at home?

Last year more than 5,000,000 hogs were shipped here from eastern and midwestern points. To pay for them, people in this part of the country sent back east over $200,000,000!

Our point is this—why not keep that profit at home? On the Purina Program, hogmen anywhere can produce low-cost pork. Even if you have no grain you can still raise profitable pork the Purina Way.

With Purina there's very little left to guesswork—you know before you start how much feed and how long it should take to put your hogs across the market scales.

Like to share in these right-at-home hog profits? Then stop by soon and let's talk about hogs.

And so the prisoner was liberated.

As to whether the missing camel was ever found, the record is silent.

Honored

JOSEPH FINDLEY

Court Thanks Joseph Findley

The Randall County Commissioners' Court passed a resolution thanking Joseph Findley, West Texas State College education professor, for his help in working with juveniles appearing before the county court.

The resolution, passed Monday, reads:

Be it resolved by the Commissioners' Court of Randall County, Texas, that sincere appreciation be expressed to Mr. Joseph Findley for his valuable assistance in handling juveniles. The Court wishes to acknowledge Mr. Findley's freely-given time and effort over a period of more than two years during which he has used his specialized knowledge of psychology to advise with parents and juveniles throughout Randall County. As a result of Mr. Findley's guidance, the Court can list several cases where problem juveniles have been returned to useful status in their communities, and there undoubtedly are benefits to be derived from Mr. Findley's work which are as yet intangible. The Court is cognizant of the fact that psychological guidance cannot always be measured in terms of immediate, easily seen results.

Although Mr. Findley refuses any monetary recognition of the work which he has been doing, the Commissioners' Court takes this method of expressing gratitude to Mr. Findley for civic endeavor which might well be taken as a model by all of us who can contribute to the welfare of our community.

Unanimously adopted this the 23rd day of April, 1956, by the Commissioners Court of Randall County, Texas.

We're sponsoring a contest!

That's right, a contest with a $5 award for the winner who will be the clerk in Canyon who you think is the friendliest and most popular with customers.

This clerk can work in any store in Canyon. As for some suggestions for selection of this individual you might consider if:

- (1) The clerk is friendly; (2) the clerk is courteous; (3) the clerk is patient and remembers that the customer is always right; (4) the clerk is truly helpful and willing to go to extra effort to solve the customer's problems; and (5) he or she is the type of person you would hire in your own business.

The qualifications would make a pretty good clerk, so who do you think comes nearest meeting this standard.

Think about it awhile and if you recall a person who you would like to see chosen Canyon's star clerk, write it down and send it to Dovie Cherry, Box 928, Canyon, Texas. And you might add on what basis you made your choice. The largest number of votes cast for one person decides the winner.

So look 'em over (just because they're pretty, fellows, doesn't count), and let me know. On May 16 I'll tally up the votes and then we'll see who is $5 richer.

What's happening to all the good old eggs? They're turning into real squares, that's what.

It seems that square eggs will soon be the fad according to a recent report in Life magazine. Dietitians are really taking this square meal business to heart as methods have been devised for eggs in the future to appear on the market packaged in individual square plastic wrappers.

Advantages illustrated by Life show that it is possible to drop eggs without their breaking, square eggs are easier to store, easier to grade, easier to separate, easier to boil, and squared eggs will keep fresh longer.

Wheh, almost the most modern miracle since safety pins.

Just think. No more having to master the trick of separating yolk and white without breaking the yellow on a jagged edge of shell. No more sitting on and crushing egg cartons in the backseat of the car.

But if you have ever lived on a farm and gathered eggs fresh from the nest, those plastic squares will, at first, seem mighty cold and far removed from the hen's proud production. Wonder what Father Brown's old hen would think? And I wonder if these squares will raise the price of eggs?

At any rate I am anxious to see them on the market.

Did you see the aurora borealis Thursday night?

Well, if you're saying now what in the world is that, come to the party. I was saying that until Friday afternoon.

It seems that aurora borealis is just a dignified name for northern lights. Oh, you saw them? Well, I didn't and I'm sorry because I have only seen the phenomenon once before and thought it quite spectacular.

My curiosity was aroused enough Friday that I went to the library, consulted Encyclopedia Americana and found among other things that aurora borealis comes from French aurea boreale.

I've heard others say they have never seen northern lights. For you that haven't, northern lights are a rather spectacular display of a broad arch reaching north-east and northwest to the horizon. Beams, quivering and flickering cross the arch, shooting toward the zenith. The beams vary in brightness and seem to fade and give place to other beams.

The cause has been a great mystery for some time. It is interesting to note that to explain the mystery, the Norsemen said that Valkyries were riding abroad. The Midwestern Indians gave the explanation that northern medicine men were making fires and stewing their enemies. Eskimos today watch the phenomenon and mumble about the spirits of the dead.

Well, now we both know more about less.

We've heard of dad and son shirts, dad and son suits, but J. D. Byrd and Billy Byrd have dad and son coffee cups.

When dad goes out for coffee break at the Chuck Wagon Cafe, Billy will often be seen with him. And just like dad, he orders coffee, only Billy's comes in a junior size cup and Billy has coffee with his cream.

Coming into Canyon just as the sun goes down on a soft summer evening is quite an experience. If you have noticed it, close your eyes with me and see if you can recall the view.

Visible on the hill as you return by Palo Duro Highway... an electric jeweled skyline of Canyon against the soft, dusky hues of a crimson, brilliant gold and iridescent pink sunset... a solitaire beacon in the west end of town scintillating brightly... as you draw closer down Fourth Avenue... trees, in almost engineered straight lines, form a jutting pattern against a now peacock blue heaven as yet void of the winking carpet of stars... you pass through a town hushed, expectant of the velvet soft nightfall and bathing in the last warmth of the sun's rays... eyes follow down the avenue to an alternate flash of red and green that at last brings you to a halt amidst small traffic which seems almost contradictory to the reticent atmosphere of the world at that moment... but then you see the Humble sign to your right on the traffic light corner... you inhale fresh near-summer air as at last the night unfolds everything with cool hands... look again at the sign... and that could very well be your feeling... humble.

This time of year is always a busy one for schools and colleges. There are exams to prepare for, projects to complete, last of the year socials and on and on.

But activities at the college have been unusually peppy this week, arts festival week, with concerts, art exhibits, plays and operas being staged.

I enjoyed the opening of the week Sunday afternoon with the A Cappella Choir and band concerts and the art exhibit. Very nice.

During the choir's concert, they had a bit of trouble with one number by Samuel Barber and I couldn't help admiring the calm and cool way director Houston Bright took care of the situation. Due to the fact that things weren't sounding just right, he quietly stopped that sound, made a few adjustments with the remark that sounded like "Glad Mr. Barber isn't here today," and made a clean restart.

At the art exhibit, the model train on the main floor of the library was really an interesting spot, especially for the youngsters. One woman remarked that she had been using that train all through the concerts. She had said over and over to the youngster accompanying her that "if he would keep quiet he could go see the train." He must have been, because he was there all but devouring it.

There is another event that causes a lot of activity about this time of year—graduation. Hundreds of Texas seniors will graduate this spring and enter college next fall.

Many words are written each year to the seniors, but there is a worthy quotation engraved on the college library entrance that expresses a triple meaning of congratulations, encouragement and hope for graduates and pre-graduates as well. It says:

"Cultivated mind is the guardian genius of democracy and while guided and controlled by virtue, the noblest attribute of man."

Refugees

People often ask why there is a Refugee problem, why these uprooted people do not stay at home. Here is what one of them says—and he is one of hundreds who never get to say anything freely. Paul B., newly arrived in West Germany, says:

I managed a farm of 100 acres. I inherited it from my father; our family has lived on this little piece of land for more than 100 years. Till 1950, life was still bearable. They had given me a quota: 6000 liters of milk, 2300 eggs, 2250 lbs. of meat. I could just manage to fill that. Last year, they increased it to more than twice the amount.

I went to the local county official. He called a meeting of the farmers; all the farmers were on my side except for one, a so-called worker, a former farm-hand, a drunkard and spy, who called me a traitor and demanded that I be punished for having publicly complained.

Oddly enough, they left me alone for nearly another year. First they arrested the richest farmer in the district. Nothing is known of his fate. This arrest acted like a warning-bell: in the course of the next few days, more than a dozen farmers with their families fled, secretly, at night. The officials did not mind this in the least: they combined the abandoned farms into one big collective estate, declared it "people's property" and settled it with factory workers who didn't know the first thing about farming. Working at starvation wages, these workers know their fate: if they don't fulfill their quota, they will wind up in prison.

And now it was my turn. One day, when they came to get my quota of potatoes, one of them started shouting that I was a criminal, a wrecker, a saboteur. They had not even weighed the potatoes yet.

That evening I went out to feed the animals. I said goodbye to the horses, the cows. I had raised them all myself. There was a lump in my throat. But I had to think of my children.

Before sunrise we got onto the first train. The bloodhounds don't start work that early, you see. Well... now we're beggars. We've lost everything that we saved and acquired through generations of hard work. But we're free again — and that's worth a lot more.

Students Organize Science Academy

Science students at West Texas State College have organized a "West Texas State Academy of Science," which will gain affiliation with the Texas Academy of Science.

The group, representing all the physical and natural sciences on the campus, will "promote the sciences in the Panhandle." The WT college chapter will be represented in the state group at its annual convention next fall in Brownwood.

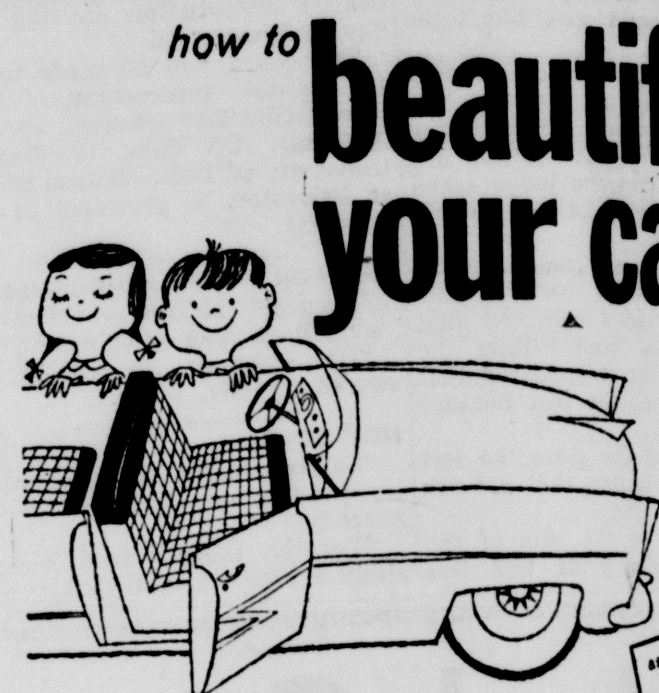

No officers will be elected, but three rotating chairmen, to serve for a semester, will be chosen. These are presiding chairman, who will be responsible for speakers and arranging bi-weekly meetings; a membership chairman; and an activities chairman, who will handle refreshments and make arrangements for equipment to be used during meetings.

Ralph Gowen, sophomore biology major from Amarillo, has been chosen presiding chairman, remainder of the spring semester and is the only officer chosen. The WT Academy plans to sponsor a freshman science scholar and an achievement award outstanding WT science student. Dr. Robert C. Busted, professor of biology and chairman of division of the sciences, is faculty sponsor.

Cowart Reviews Surprised By Joy

Mrs. Pete Cowart reviewed Surprised By Joy, best-selling autobiography of C. S. Lewis, at a Palo Duro-Rusk Home Demonstration book review and silver tea held Saturday afternoon in the VFW Hall.

In an approximate 45 minute review, Mrs. Cowart told, in first person, the sketch of Lewis' search for Christianity and true joy, beginning with his birth in Ireland and following his life through days of formal education, days as a teacher and his discovery of faith by reason.

Mrs. Cowart's concluding words were of Lewis' discovery that "Joy is the sign of life's highway that points to Jesus Christ."

A housewife and mother of three children, Mrs. Cowart graduated from West Texas State College and did graduate work at the University of Texas.

She, with Mrs. Wilkinson, club president, and Mrs. Charles Conatser, received guests who were also greeted by Mrs. Bob Dawson and Mrs. Douglas Marshall at the guest book.

Presiding at the refreshment table, decorated with red and white and laid with crystal setting, were Mrs. Dick Lowrey and Mrs. Earl Reynolds.

Other members of the club helping with refreshments were Mrs. J. C. McClendon, Mrs. Henry Miller, Mrs. Ed Reynolds, Mrs. Roger Dugan, Mrs. Bill Dugan, Mrs. A. R. Northcutt and Mrs. Gladys Marshall, other members, were unable to be present.

Betrothal Announced at Tea; Plans Being Made for May Wedding

The engagement and approaching marriage of Dorothy Jean Cleavinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Cleavinger, to Louis Pippin, son of Mrs. J. F. King of Amarillo, was announced Thursday at a tea in her parent's home, 2000 Sixth Avenue. The wedding will be May 26 at the Joseph A. Hill Chapel.

Decorations were used to make the betrothal announcement. A small church scene with miniature bride and groom, which was made by the bride-elect's grandmother, was inscribed with the couple's names and placed at the guest book. At the refreshment table, plans were further revealed by the centerpiece of satin ribbon streamers, inscribed with "Dorothy and Louis, May 26," descending from an arrangement of blue carnations and snapdragons around a white heart.

Garden flowers were placed throughout the house. Nancy Cleavinger, sister of the bride-elect, presided at the guest book. At the refreshment table were Mrs. Norman Cleavinger of Dimmitt and Mrs. M. E. Cleavinger. Wenelda Rose played musical selections during the party.

Guests were received by the bride-elect, Mrs. E. R. Cleavinger and aunt of the bridegroom-elect, Mrs. John Moore.

And all through my jeans,
I've hunted in vain for the

The pennies have quit.

And make it tomorrow
Just for tonight.

Commission Gets $30, Tries To Give It Back

AUSTIN—Thirty dollars in cash were mailed to the Game and Fish Commission anonymously, stipulating the money be used to help finance the Commission's wildlife restoration program. But the Commission is not empowered to accept such funds.

Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the Commission, recalled receipt several years ago of a cashier's check for $250 for the same purpose. Then, the sender finally was identified through the bank and the money refunded.

Commission hawkshaws are trying to locate the latest benefactor, but clues are much more meager.

HOW TO BE A BETTER COOK
...and save money too!
by Mary Blake

AS FEATURED IN LIFE

SUNNY ISLE RICE PUDDING
(Makes 6 servings)

1 1/2 cups (large can) undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk
1 cup water
2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups cooked Uncle Ben's "Converted" Rice
3/4 cup shredded coconut

Beat Carnation, water, eggs, sugar and flavorings until smooth. Pour over cooked Uncle Ben's Rice mixed with 1/4 cup coconut, in 2-quart casserole. Place in pan of water. Bake in moderate oven (350°F) 30 minutes. Stir lightly. Continue baking 30 minutes. Top with remaining coconut during last 5-7 minutes of baking. Cool before serving.

It's the Gay 90's all over again!—A return to the spirit of a colorful past—of cracker barrels, wood stoves, bustles, and the Farmers Almanac—A time when a dollar was worth a dollar. Maybe we can't make your dollar go as far as Grandmother's, but we'll have plenty of fun trying. Let's begin with these dollar stretchers.
